Biographical sketch:

Ronald James Baker was born in Lambeth, England, on August 24, 1924, to James Herbert Walter and Ethel Frances Baker (nee Miller).

He attended the Country School for Boys in Sidcup in the London Borough of Bexley from 1935 to 1940.

From 1940 to 1943, Baker worked as an Air Raid Precautions Dispatch rider in London during the WWII blitz. From 1943 to 1947, he served with the Royal Air Force (RAF) as an Officer with the 8402 Canadian Disarmament Wing in Germany, as a Navigator / Flying Controller at Brigg Hill, and as a Disarmament Liaison Officer in Europe. He left the RAF as a Flight Lieutenant.

In 1947, he trained in Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, emigrated to Canada, and that same year married Helen ("Jo") Gillespie Elder (divorced 1975), with whom he had five children (Sharon "Ann," Lynn "Lyndy" Frances, Ian James, Sarah Jane, and Katherine Jean). He obtained Canadian citizenship in 1951.

Baker graduated with both a Bachelor of Arts (First Class Honors, 1951) and a Master of Arts (1953) in English language and literature from The University of British Columbia (UBC). He worked as a lecturer from 1951 to 1953, as an instructor from 1953 to 1954 and 1956 to 1957, and as an Assistant Professor from 1957 to 1962 at UBC.

In 1954, Baker switched from studying English Literature to studying linguistics and spent two years (1954 to 1956) at the School of Oriental and African Studies at the University of London. During this time, he received fellowships from the Royal Society of Canada and the Humanities Research Council of Canada.

Baker returned to UBC in 1956 as a full-time member of the Department of English. From 1956 to 1963, he taught literature and linguistics at UBC and was a contributor to the report by UBC President Dr. John B. MacDonald Higher Education in British Columbia, and a Plan for the Future (1962) that led to the setting up of the University of Victoria and Simon Fraser University, and several two-year colleges.

While at UBC, Baker initiated the university's first experiment with resident professors in outlying parts of the province. He spent the 1960-1961 academic year as UBC's first resident Professor in Prince George. While there, he also worked with the Indigenous community, Nadleh Whut'en First Nation, to study their Dakelh / Carrier language. He took recordings that formed a linguistic study of the Dakelh / Carrier language of that distinct area.

In 1962, he was appointed Associate Professor in UBC's Department of English.

In 1964, Baker became the first faculty member hired by Simon Fraser University President Patrick McTaggart-Cowan. He served as the Director of Academic Planning from 1964 to 1965 and, during that time, designed the University's trimester academic year and its lecture-tutorial teaching system. He became Professor and the first Head of the Department of English from 1964 to 1968 and Professor of English from 1968 to 1969.

In 1969, Baker moved to Prince Edward Island (PEI), where he served as the first President of the University of Prince Edward Island (UPEI) from 1969 to 1978. Upon his retirement from the UPEI President's office in 1978, Baker was named President

Emeritus in recognition of his accomplishments and took up duties as a professor at the University. He was the inaugural David MacDonald Stewart Professor of Canadian Studies from 1988 until he retired in 1991. He was recognized as a UPEI Founder at the University's first Founders' Day in 2000, and the University's Baker Plaza was named in his honor in 2008.

It was on PEI that Baker married Frances Marilyn Frazer (1932-2010) in 1975, with whom he had one child (Ralph Edward "Teddy").

Baker served on numerous councils and committees throughout his career, including: Canadian Association of University Teachers (1954-1969); Canadian Linguistic Association (1956-1978); Association of Canadian University Teachers of English (1957-1968); Canadian Association of University Teachers (1954-1977); Canadian Council of Teachers of English (1957-1977); Canadian Council of Teachers of English (1968-1971); Canadian Society for the Study of Higher Education (1965-1976); Humanities Association of Canada (1956-1969); Canada Council (1970-1976); Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts (1971); The Royal Commonwealth Society (1972); Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada (1972-1978); Association of Atlantic Universities (1975-1977); Canada Council Consultative Group on Scholarly Publishing (1976-1979); Killam Committee, Canada Council (1984-1986); Selection Committee of Department of National Defense on Military and Strategic Studies (1985-1999); and the Canadian Citizen Court (1996-2004).
